REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND DEMOGRAPHIC FLOWS OF SOUTHEASTERN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES

Niš, 29 June 2018

In carrying out its mission in the field of education and science, the Faculty of Economics in Niš has become, over time, also recognisable by the very successful organisation of scientific conferences. In particular, this applies to the scientific conference on regional development and demographic flows, which has been organised every year since 1996, with the permanent increase in the number of participants, as well as the number of countries from which the authors come.

Considering the currency of the topic, a scientific conference entitled "Regional Development and Demographic Flows of Southeastern European Countries" - a kind of Niš School for regional development and demographic trends will be organised this year again.

It would be a great pleasure if you would contribute to the successful work of the Scientific Conference with your participation and papers.

THEMATIC FIELDS

- Regional disparities – the conditions, possibilities and mechanisms for their reduction
- Characteristics of current demographic processes
- Other aspects of regional development and demographic flows
